The statistics appearing in this survey were compiled from coded data contained in the U. S. Department of Commerce, Bureau of the Census Reports SM703 (Exports by Vessel) and SM303 (Imports by Vessel) which were supplied by the District Office of the U. S. Department of Commerce in Miami, Florida. Their cooperation is gratefully acknowledged.

This is one of a series of individual surveys which will be compiled into one volume comprising all international ports and airports in the State of Florida. No attempt has been made at an analysis of the statistics. This would seem to be the prerogative of the areas concerned and foreign trade or industrial prospects contemplating location in the State of Florida and/or use of its facilities. Suffice it to state that total foreign trade, i. e. exports plus imports, for the Port of Miami, Florida during the calendar year 1954, via ocean shipping, amounted to 491,029,887 pounds, or approximately 245,515 short tons valued at $45,788,242.

Statistics are for the calendar year 1954, the latest available when this survey was being made. Military shipments and shipments between continental United States and its territories, possessions, etc., Florida's particular interest being the Commonwealth of Puerto Rico, are not included.

Specific information on international port and airport facilities in Dade County was provided by the Miami-Dade County Chamber of Commerce, the Port Director of Miami International Airport and the Port Director of the City of Miami. Their interest and cooperation was most helpful and highly appreciated.

With the initiation of this survey, it is hoped that similar information can be assembled on an annual basis to measure trends and conditions with respect to international trade in the individual counties as well as in the State of Florida as a whole.

PORT OF MIAMI, FLORIDA

Under The Jurisdiction of the City Commission of Miami, Florida

Captain Charles A. Olsen, Port Director

GENERAL DESCRIPTION OF THE PORT*

Miami Harbor is on the Atlantic Coast of the State of Florida near the southern extremity of the peninsula about 335 miles south of the mouth of the St. Johns River and 160 miles north and east of Key West, Fla. The City of Miami is located on the west shore of Biscayne Bay at Miami River. The City of Miami Beach is located on the peninsula on the east side of the bay, opposite Miami. The harbor embraces the artificial basins, slips, and channels that have been dredged along the bay front of the two cities and in the bay and through the shoal water of Biscayne Bay to the ocean.

The entrance to the main channel is directly east of the City of Miami, approximately 5.8 miles. The sea buoy marking the channel entrance through the reef is about 2 miles offshore. The entrance is an artificial cut 1000 feet wide, known as Government Cut, dredged across the southern end of Miami Beach. It is protected by jetties and is well marked. A channel has been dredged 30 feet deep and 500 feet wide on the sea end and 300 feet wide through the cut to Biscayne Bay. This entrance affords the most direct access to the port, has the greatest navigable capacity, and is now the only channel used by ocean vessels bound to and from the Port of Miami.

A channel 300 feet wide and 30 feet deep has been dredged across Biscayne Bay leading from the channel dredged through the land cut to a turning basin in front of the municipal docks.

Three connecting basins are situated along the Miami water front. The municipal turning basin, located in front of the commercial docks, is 1,400 feet north and south, 1,350 feet east and west, with a controlling depth of 30 feet. Immediately south is the Florida East Coast Railway Terminal Basin, with a controlling depth of 13 feet. Further south is located the Municipal Yacht Anchorage Basin with a depth of 16 feet, extending along Bayfront Park to the mouth of the Miami River.

Miami River has a channel dredged to 15 feet at high water, 150 feet wide for a distance of 3 miles above the mouth, thence 125 feet wide to a point 4.1 miles above the mouth, thence 90 feet wide to a point 5 1/2 miles above the mouth.

TIDES & TIDAL CURRENTS*

The mean tidal range at the entrance to Miami Harbor is 2.5 feet, and in the bay it is about 2 feet. The extreme tidal range is about 4.5 feet at the entrance. Easterly winds sometimes raise the water level 1.5 feet at the entrance and 1 foot at the bay, while westerly winds lower the water level about 1 foot at the entrance and about 0.5 foot in the bay.

The tidal currents at the entrance to Biscayne Bay have considerable velocity, and care should be taken in entering the channel. The currents have a velocity of 3 to 4 knots through the main ship channel.

ANCHORAGES*

The prescribed anchorage area for vessel anchoring outside the harbor is located eastward of a line about 1.5 Nautical miles offshore and northward of a line about 0.5 Nautical mile north of the sea buoy at the entrance to the ship channel. The northern and southern extremities of this area are marked by spar buoys.

Vessels desiring to anchor off the entrance to the harbor of Miami are required to do so within this area, to avoid possible injury to cables laid on the ocean bottom in the vicinity.

The approximate storage capacity of the plant is fifty average freight cars or 9,848 sq. ft. The one-hundred ton freezer plant uses Freon Gas, direct expansion and can maintain a minimum temperature of ten degrees below zero. The fully automatic temperature controls provide for quick conversion from freezer to chill rooms when needed. The machinery consists of multiple unit compressors which permits repair and replacements without stopping the machinery completely.

FUEL OIL

A major oil company receives about 55 oil tankers a year at Pier 1, Port of Miami. These vessels bring in bulk cargoes of Bunker C Fuel Oil, Diesel Fuel and Road Asphalt products. The aggregate total gross tonnage represented by these tankers is approximately 500,000 tons. These products are distributed by barge and transport truck from Vero Beach to Key West on the Atlantic Coast and to the Okeechobee Region and to Ft. Myers on the Gulf of Mexico.

The asphalt products are used on the highways and air fields of South Florida.

MARINE REPAIRS & MECHANICAL HANDLING EQUIPMENT

Private interests maintain two dry docks, of 1,000-ton capacity each, which are located on the P. O. docks. The main building of this dry dock company has an area of 20,000 square feet and the shops are well equipped to handle heavy commercial work. This organization also owns a 50-ton stiff leg crane which is the only crane capable of handling heavy cargo and machinery, from shipside to rail cars, in the Miami area.
